

Wish You Away

There for Tomorrow

Where do you go when you listen to nobody else but yourself?
Where do you go?
You're so far from the willing, you're in such a rush not to tell
So where do you go? Oh, when getting in where your feet end doesn't get you one single thing
Where will you go?
When the secrets that you've been keeping get a hold of nothing
I oh, I'd like to know Can I wish you away until you find your place in this world?
It's so hard to get a feel
And all you do is wait but then one little taste
So caught up inside to know what's real
But until you've had all you can take I'll wish you away So where do you go when forgetting what you had in store for yourself?
Drags me along
Because you keep running in circles, you're blinded by everything
Just ask me if I know where to go, where to go Can I wish you away until you find your place in this world?
It's so hard to get a feel
And all you do is wait but then one little taste
So caught up inside to know what's real
But until you've had all you can take
Oh, but until you've had all you can take can I wish you away? Would you baby go backward
Can I wish you away?
Would you baby go backward You say you'll be gone just another minute
You're too far, have to still be in it
Don't act like you're sleeping
When I can see you're wide awake Can I wish you away until you find your place in this world?
It's so hard to get a feel
And all you do is wait but then one little taste
You're so caught up inside to know what's real Can I wish you away until you find your place in this world?
It's so hard to get a feel
And all you do is wait but then one little taste
You're so caught up inside to know what's real
But until you've had all you can take I'll wish you away
