

So Many Zoes

Sheer Agony

And there are so many zoes
Who don't even know me
And I don't know them either
But I'm starting to slowly There are so many Ashleys
Who just walk right past me
And I walk past them too
'Cause that's what you do And I'm at the gallery
And all the paintings look the same
And I don't like the picture
But I do like the frames. And there are so many Lauras
And I don't mean to bore you
But when you add them up
It can really just floor you. And I'm at the gallery
And all the pictures look the same
And I don't like the picture
But I do like the frame. And there are so many Jacksons
It's like a small fraction
Of the people you meet
When you're out in a street.
