One Night

Travis

I wake up to find you lying awake
With your hands in your head
You cannot run, can't escape from the things
That you sayAnd you can tell anybody
Anybody who comes
You can tell anybody
But the damage is done
The new day's begunOne night can change everything in your life
One night can make everything alright
One night can turn all your colors to white
One night, it's easier said than doneTurning and turning but never returning
To what you once had
Learning to care for the ones you hold dear
But it's too, it's too badOne night can change everything in your life
One night can make everything alright
One night can turn all your colors to white
One night, it's easier said than doneAll that I am
All that I am
All that I amLying beside you, as cold as a statue
Your hands are still warm
Trying to wake you as daylight, it brakes through
The eye of the stormSo you can tell everybody
Everybody who comes
You can tell everybody
But the damage is done
The new day's begunOne night can change everything in your life
One night can make everything alright
One night can turn all your colors to white
One night, it's easier said than doneOne night, one night
One night, one night
It's easier said than done
