

Honest

Azedia

These murmured mumbles from my mouth
Are honest homage to the ones I think about
But these confessions bring you down
Sometimes
Only sometimes I never asked to own this throne
A guilty pleasure never known
I try to reap just what I've sown
Only sometimes
Sometimes
You know that I could walk away
Can stop at any time of day
You listen to the words I say
Only sometimes
Sometimes The public only spares their time
If they can save a single dime
If only they could know these rhymes
Are taking me from normal life
A simple walk from minor fame
Rips you from family the change
Will cause you to get used to pain
Only sometimes
Sometimes The silence comes before you know
The panic starts to take control
The crowd is asking you for more
But you sang your last song hours ago
You think that you are doing fine
But then your death is at the deadline
Just keep your cool just keep your mind
Don't let the label steal your life My quips these lips are artists
Only see the money if the puppet makes hits
Someone is bound to hate this
Judging by the comments made below the track list
We're dodging every verbal fast fist
Fat cats wearing black hats with a stamp that says skip
Only stay alive when the angels notice
Sometimes
Only sometimes Taking me from normal life
Sign the line below
The world will never know

The world will never know

Light will find you

Light will find you

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>