

Birth and the Burial

Act of Defiance

Cast into flame, you are the fire. Bridges, they burn
Your friends walk away from you now
Debts from the past. Strangers return, promises sold
They've come to collect what you owe
Rest and repent your sins, it's a feast for the dead
Heaven's burning below - Your name on a tombstone
Your fate, it falls on deaf ears, with every unanswered prayer
You reap what you sow - The birth and the burial
You're bleeding out, buried alive. It's your last breath
You're helped dig the hole that's your grave
Sever the ties, leave them behind. You've tortured yourself
Haunted by your biggest mistake
No God will answer your call, you're left to die on your own
Give yourself unto the earth, it's best for everyone else
Fatal embrace, feed their desire, your cradle, it falls
Your firstborn will surely be blind
Mourning the loss, you are the sign, an unspoken curse
Secrets untold, come to life
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>