Pop Lie

Okkervil River

All sweetly sung and succinctly stated

Words and music you calculated

To make you sing along with your stereo on

As you stand in your shorts on your lawnGet completely incorporated

By some couple who consummated

Their first love by the dawn

A falling star wished upon

And flashed in the sky and was goneAnd that's when [Incomprehensible]By the back room the kids all waited

To meet the man in bright green

Who had dreamed up the dream

That they rest their hearts uponHe's the liar who lied in his pop song

And you're lying when you sing along

And you're lying when you sing alongSo here's the car seat so cruelly weighted

And here's the faces already faded

At the end of the day when they just threw away

The only good thing that they ownedAnd now they're [Incomprehensible]But at the food court the float's inflated

People line up to see the man

Who dreamed up the dream

That they rest their hearts uponHe's the liar who lied in his pop song

The liar who lied in his pop song

And you're lying when you sing along

Oh yeah, you're lying when you sing alongWeek by week it climbs up and comes on

And we're feeling alright though we know it's all wrong

I'm ashamed to admit that I can't help resist

What I wished was the truth but it's notAnd I truly believe we're not strong

And we'll sing till our voices are gone

And [Incomprehensible] This is respectfully dedicated

To the woman who concentrated

All of her love to find that she'd wasted it on

The liar who lied in this song
