Funny

Scars On Broadway

Funny, how you turned red When I first said let's join the dead Funny, I was driving by Feeling really high, it made me cryFunny, there were swastikas On Santa Monica where they were scarred Funny that no one said That you were dead and painted redWhere do you go when you fall on your face? It's a place that you never should know Is there a reason why people should change? And they changing the way that they goIf I was there with you for long Would you be singing me this song? I'm holding onWhere do you go when you fall on your face? It's a place that you never should know Is there a reason why people should change? And they changing the way that they goIf I was there with you for long Would you be singing me this song? I'm holding on

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/