

Champion of the World

Little Feat

Well I'm weak, worthless,
...can't make up my mind. When they handed out ambition,
I was next to last in line....Lost little lamb...
'til I found that girl...When she holds me in her arms, I'm the champion of the world. I was drunk on Monday,
standing at the bar,
when somebody said;
"Hey Mister, could you help me start my car?" I wouldn't know a sparkplug from the Duke Of Earl, But when I drive home to my baby...
I'm the champion of the world. People talk behind my back:
"How can she stay with a man like that?" It ain't easy... but Heaven knows she tries...Ohh, They never see the sweetness of the love there is between us when she holds my hand and looks me in the eye. I'm a creep, I'm a coward...on my hands and knees I crawl. I fall apart under pressure, I've got no back bone at all. Daddy always told me...
I throw a baseball like a girl, But when my baby holds me, I'm the champion of the world. When my baby holds me, I'm the champion of the world.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>