

Letters

Lera Lynn

Watching leaves fall in September ,
The last time that I can remember
You smiling down on me.
And the photographs that I have taken of
You in our kitchen making love,
Inside and I, you in pinned
Smell of your love smoking fingers
Bruise and bleeding all still lingers on
Inside this head of mine
And when I hear your music playing
Again I hear your sad voice saying
You were never satisfied
Oh no, you were never satisfied Come by if you're downtown
We'll drink and celebrate the moon
And all the things you left behind, oho
I've forgiven you for all that you did
Still all I can do is write these letters that will never get to you, oho A photo smelling ??? burning
As I rinsed my hair this morning
When I called out, you weren't there
And the diesel truck the neighbor drives
Fools me into thinking you're alive
And coming home to stay
But you were running like a chalkboard scratch
All night long, no turning back up
Get what it's your heart a lie
And so you've left me here in pain and wonder
??? never pushing you like thunder coming from the gods
Oh, it might have saved you from the dark(x2)
Come by if you're downtown
We'll drink and celebrate the moon
And all the things you left behind, oho
I've forgiven you for all that you did
Still all I can do is write these letters that will never get to you, oho

Songwriters

BUETTNER, LERA LYNN Published by Lyrics Â© Universal Music Publishing Group

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>