Realistically

Hannah Robinson

From across the room
A sparkle in your eye
Was it something
Was it nothing
Was it everything combined
A moment in time
So defined

A trip down the lane
We find ourselves at a movie
Awkward touches
Hidden smiles
Stolen glances like a child
And weâ€™ll sit side-by-side
Two lovers on this ride

And weâ€™ll laugh about the times where we drank far too much wine
And weâ€™ll smile about the days of those new exciting ways
And weâ€™ll share a little kiss
All this love we know to be bliss
But realistically itâ€™s all just in my head

Sunshiny days
Endless spring
Endless summer
Nothing cold
Nothing dark
No winter to break us
These days go by
Oh what a life

Sitting by the fire
A cold night in July
Hands intertwined
Secret language
Secret bribe
And the lights around our eyes
These creases of time

And weâ€™ll laugh about the times where we drank far too much wine

And weâ€™ll smile about those days of our new exciting ways
And weâ€™ll share a little kiss
All this love we know to be bliss
But realistically itâ€™s all just in my head

And itâ€™s all just one big fantasy
I donâ€™t know your name
Your favourite movie
And youâ€™ll be out of sight
But never out of my mind
Cause those four short seconds did change my life
And realistically youâ€™ll just walk away
A cliche, I convene
But the truth all the same
And I mightâ€™ve said cya later
If Iâ€™d known what to say
But realistically, realistically
Realistically Iâ€™m way in over my head
