Believe

Jon Secada

From that first hello, though you never asked for it
You took hold of my soul and what you and I don't know
Destiny has brought inside our hearts and lives
And if there ever was a doubt
Not to believe that some things are meant to be
'Cause no matter how far or where you are
I feel you here as close as my mind can see you
A vision of tenderness and love for us to share
I thought I would regret it then I thought I could forget
The times we shared together

But I never thought I'd care for you, baby
I never really thought it'd come to this
And if there ever was a doubt
Not to believe that some things are meant to be
'Cause no matter how far or where you are
I feel you here as close as my mind can see you
A vision of tenderness and love for us to share
I believe that we were meant to be
