

Writings On the Wall

Lovex

A glimpse of light breaks through
The ruins of our lives
My dusty eyelid rise to let hope
Blind my sight Between the closing walls
A breeze revives my mind
I run into the darkness
Preying we could escape Is this moment the last chance to change the course
For I know she can't take, she can't take this for long Is this the chance that I've been looking for
That I've been looking
For to change the writings on the wall
The writings on the I collect the puzzles wishing
The tears could fill a well
Deep enough to sink our problems
Once and for all Is this moment the last chance to change the course
For I know she can't take, she can't take this for long Is this the chance that I've been looking for
That I've been looking
For to change the writings on the wall
The writings on the
The wall
Is this the chance that I've been looking for Time after time, wrong after right, but never again
Will I let things roll without taking control of myself Is this the chance that I've been looking for
That I've been looking
For to change the writings on the wall
The writings on the
The wall
Is this the chance that I've been looking for

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>