

Leftrightwrong

Itchy Poopzkid

I roll up my sleeves to feel the past
Force myself to remember
I thought that this bond was meant to last
Believing we won't surrenderIt turns out our passionate
Friendship's more like bargains
With customers trading heart
For skin and the bodies that we're inWhen I read between your lies
It becomes a fortune
You're no longer in disguise
I'm forever gone'Cause it feels like my left is right
But this right just feels so wrong
And it feels like my world ain't here
Because I just don't belongYour precious word falls silently
Like an empty raindrop
Credibility looks like jewelry
On a burgler's mut shotIt's not yet dangerous
But an old illusion
Your smile looks like your face
Got hurt by contaminated words
