Flowers in December

[unknown]

Before I let you down again
I just want to see you in your eyes
I wouldn't have taken everything out on you
I only thought you could understandThey say every man goes blind in his heart
And they say everybody steals somebody's heart away
And I've got nothing more to say about it
Nothing more than you would meSend me your flowers of your December
Save me your dream of your candied wine
I've got just one thing I can't give you
Just one more thing of mineThey say every man goes blind in his heart
And they say everybody steals somebody's heart away
And I've been wondering why you let me down
And I've been taking it all for granted
