

So Close, So Far

Hoobastank

I wake up all alone, I'm somewhere unfamiliar
I've been gone so many days, I am losing count
And when I think of home, I see your face
I know I have to wait You're so close yet so far, it's tearing me apart
What I would do to be there with you
So close yet so far, it's tearing me apart
What I would do to be back with you I miss hearing your laughter and all the little things
Forgotten what it's like to hold you
'Cause where I am right now, so unforgiving
It's numbing everything We're so close yet so far, it's tearing me apart
What I would do to be there with you
So close yet so far, it's tearing me apart
What I would do to be back with you So promise, no matter how long it takes for me
To get back to you, you'll wait for me
I promise, no matter how far away I go
I'll come back for you, just wait and see I miss being at home, I miss your face
Don't think I can wait We're so close yet so far, it's tearing me apart
What I would do to be there with you
So close yet so far, it's tearing me apart
What I would do to be back with you I promise, it's tearing me apart
No matter how far away I go, I'll come back for you
I promise, it's tearing me apart
What I would do, what I would do
What I would do to be there with you

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>