Atmosphere

When I was younger, I didn't think that I would live
For as long as I've been living it
And I ain't saying I expected to dieBefore that number got high
Just never deliberately considered it
Go figure it
Who'd known [that] I'd 'a had so many kids
And the first one's grown n' doesn't answer his phone
The third sun from the stone
Got me supposing
I'm supposed to focus
On keeping this home
Outta foreclosure
From all four corners
Feels like I'm riding on an old rollercoaster
The ghost of Christmas sober
Mostly, but I'mma overdose
On these four leaf clovers
You can dance like a crash survivor
You can laugh or cry
Whatever pacifies you
Funny how time flies
To my family sets my raft on fire
I don't pretend to be cool, don't pretend to be young
I don't pretend to be smart, don't pretend to be dumb
I don't pretend to be hard, don't pretend to be first
And most of all I don't pretend to be concerned
I don't pretend to be rich, don't pretend to be broke
I don't pretend to be asleep, don't pretend to be woke
I don't pretend to be deep, don't pretend to be clean
I'm everything and everything that's in betweenThey said you only get one life
But I lived at least four lives in the life I'm living in now
And if I could handwrite what they say when I'm gone
It's that he's said everything that he could fit in his mouth
I got the coldest shoulder in the solar system
I know because I drove around this whole existence
Resistance to personal growth seems suspicious
What, you really didn't want to go the distance
I don't stand still, wander off, I'm a drifter
Look at the bigger digital panoramic picture

You catch a panic attack from try'na handle the facts
You inanimate on a map
Wait though, I'll never be finished, infinity
Grateful for every opportunity you've given me
And when the time's right, y'all can lighten up
Like there's too much life to love
I don't pretend to be cool, don't pretend to be young
I don't pretend to be smart, don't pretend to be dumb
I don't pretend to be hard, don't pretend to be first
And most of all I don't pretend to be concerned
I don't pretend to be rich, don't pretend to be broke
I don't pretend to be asleep, don't pretend to be woke
I don't pretend to be deep, don't pretend to be clean
I'm everything and everything that's in between.
