That's Okay

Dwight Yoakam

That's okay, it's alright
No, really everything is cool
This is just the way I look
When I'm feeling like a fool
Teardrops falling, jealous
Drowning in them's just as well as
Drifting on this lonely sea of pain
Could have used another
Night or so to be recovered
Believe the lies I told myself
But just as long as you know
That's okay, it's alright
No, really everything is cool
This is just the way I look
When I'm feeling like a fool
Voice about us softly mumbling
Words that trip my heart is stumbling
To the ground and crawls there on its knees
I'll embrace small shards of silence
To avoid a loss this violent
And survive love's darkest fears
Just as long as you know
That's okay, it's alright
No, really everything is cool
This is just the way I look
When I'm feeling like a fool
When I'm feeling like a fool
