In Your Eyes

Sylver

I can still remember, long ago
Living in the fast lane, never slow
And nothing that could come between me and youI still hear the words I thought were cheap
You should always look before you leap
And I never realized those words were, oh, so trueI hope that you can hear me
Though you're living in another world
Throwing shadows upon earthIn your eyes, I could drown and still survive
In your eyes, I could see how to live my life
But if only I knew that chances were few
Maybe, I would still be with youSeveral thoughts I can't define
Living on a dream, seems like a crime
But every now and then, it's hard to ignore'Cause only in my dreams, I find a clue
When I try to build a memory of you
I know our love will be much stronger than beforeI hope that you can hear me
Though you're living in another world
Throwing shadows upon earthIn your eyes, I could drown and still survive
In your eyes, I could see how to live my life
But if only I knew that chances were few
Maybe I would still be with youI hope that you can hear me
Though you're living in another world
Throwing shadows upon earthIn your eyes, I could drown and still survive
In your eyes, I could see how to live my life
But if only I knew that chances were few
Maybe I would still be with you, oh babyIn your eyes, I could drown and still survive
In your eyes, I could see how to live my life
But if only I knew that chances were few
Maybe I would still be with you, oh baby
