Leather Face

Pulley

Cast away the hopes of someone ever changing you
But the thrill it takes to get there is something all brand new
The reasons why I stay are always justified
I never told you what that means
I never told you anything
Step aside
Take a breath
Let it be
Don't look back
It's gonna free your mind
Free your mind
After everyone you walk on you turn your head away
I know it burns you up inside but your walls run so high
I've got something to tell you
I know you know what it means
I know it's something you see
The pain that hides so deep inside
Will soon show its head
The truth will surface
As you lie awake
And the dream will be dead
