I Only Want You

Ruston Kelly

You're the only one I trust in this cardboard town...
If I could find a match I would burn it down.
I won't bow to these kings and queens; they're just building castles of plastic dreams ~I only want you~
Songbirds lose their will to sing... and crawl back home on trampled wings... and all this gold will someday rust... these kingdoms will all return to dust ... ~I only want you~
There was a time when I believed the lies, till I saw the truth buried in your eyes... I started running a selfish life... I finally let that part of me die. ~I only want you~
You're the only one I trust in this cardboard town...
If I could find a match I would burn it down.
