

Survival

The Colorful Quiet

If you're not fit for survival and you're headed on your way then you forfeit the revival of the songs you used to play so remember where you came from 'cause one day you will be there again in the face of reminiscing I would think of her as dull but just in case she's listening I'll admit it was my fault 'cause she believes all that I tell her and I wouldn't want to hurt her again and I was never sure of the way my life would go though many times before it was all that I would know and I can't really tell you what would happen if I tried to admit to myself that a part of me has died

I can see the sun is melting as she slowly fades away but there was just no helping all the words I tried to say if there was we would have made it but there can be no turning back now so it's off with good intentions and on with what is best until I find a place where I belong just like the rest I should have guessed it would have taken a couple of times or more before I'd know but I was never sure...

Lyrics submitted by madison.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>