Disarmonia Mundi

denigrate lacerate feed the poison in your veins and withstand the collapse of a world of fools all your fears torn apart like a sparkle in the dark be aware of yourself rip the decaying parts away enclosing ways of mind revive into my eyes I feel your idle grasp around my neck fading away encoding waves of mind revive into my eyes while I'm screaming now for a last time fragile and disfigured nemesis born from ashes all the answers you seek lie locked in your mind raging winds blow the sadness storming the spires of deceit and still the answers you miss lie locked in your mind the face inside the mirror with eyes so cold is staring right into you draining your soul as it slowly reaches to your brain so crystal clear the awareness that your inner demons are unleashed grant me eyes to see faces I once knew now they look so hollow grant me hands to feel my forgotten dreams in a world of shadows dominate desecrate all the bastards in your way resurrecting unbound beyond common rules havoc, ascend! from the spires of deceit spread your restless spirit and blacken the sun
