

Truth Goodness and Beauty

The Cure

I've been waiting for the lies to end
Holding for the bad to go
I've been hanging for the ugliness to change
Waiting for a world too true
Holding for a world too good
Hanging for a world too beautifulWishing for a girl too true
Hoping for a girl too good
Hungry for a girl too beautiful
All I say is a lie she sighs
Nothing I say is trueAnd all I do is bad she cries
Nothing I do is good
And, yeah, all I am is ugly
Nothing I am is beautiful at all
Don't get this world
I don't get this girlSo look but you won't see it
Listen and you won't hear it
Reach out and you won't hold it
You can't know it but you can free it
You can't name it but could feel itI've been waiting for the lies to end
Holding for the bad to go
I've been hanging for the ugliness to change
Waiting for a world too true
Holding for a world too good
Hanging for a world too beautifulWishing for a girl like you
Hoping for a girl like you
Hungry for a girl like you
No, not like you, you

Songwriters

Robert James Smith;Perry Archangelo Bamonte;Jason Toop Cooper;Roger O'donnell;Simon Johnathon

GallupPublished by

UNIVERSAL MUSIC-MGB SONGS Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>