

They Say

At Long Last

You found salvation in the lord before you left without a explanation

You left my heart in a sorrow state, others underestimate how I feel when youre gone

They come up to me andThey say I look like you, feel like you, talk like you, even when youre gone

They say I see like you, act like you, walk like you, even when youre goneYoure a spitting image, looking like a familiar ghost, walking with this bad baggage

The people, they come up to me and they speak the words that bring back the memoriesYou wanted change, but know it will never change

Its only been one year since I have shed all of those tears

Our lives will never be the same, and they say itll be okay

But I know it wont
