

Song for a Friend

Aztec Camera

Awake in winter's crystal hours
And give to what gets you in the end
For the sake of a love that just devours
And smiles and takes and lays you down again
Run free the moon is always female
Straight to what's still and will not bend
Don't wait for his sunshine to surround you
Consume and fake and let you down again
Cos' life is short and you better get smart
To the people who know nothing and surround you
Stand straight in what kills you and confounds you
And break its chains and still believe
