

Safe Harbour

Said The Whale

Safe Harbor by The Brighton (Ben Rosenbush)

I write you in song

As you paint my face

Tide rolls in around us now. Carry us away.

And as I reach for your small hand. The language that's spoken between our skin whispers that we've found something

And I'll be your safe harbor

You'll be my daring sail

We'll take on this wide ocean

And we won't be afraid to fail.

No we won't be afraid to fail. You're laugh is louder

Then I come to the clouds

My eyes are your room tonight where I lay you down.

Come with me let's go out for a drive around town 'till we find somewhere we can talk all night. And we'll climb up in a willow tree where I will hold you close as we watch twilight colors change.

We will grab a hold of these moments created. And I'll be you're warm shelter

You'll be my precious wing

We'll take on this great blue sky

And we won't be afraid of falling
