Safe Harbour

Said The Whale

Safe Harbor by The Brighton (Ben Rosenbush) I write you in song As you paint my face Tide rolls in around us now. Carry us away. And as I reach for your small hand. The language that's spoken between our skin whispers that we've found somethingChorus And I'll be your safe harbor You'll be my daring sail We'll take on this wide ocean And we won't be afraid to fail. No we won't be afraid to fail. You're laugh is louder Then I come to the clouds My eyes are your room tonight where I lay you down. Come with me let's go out for a drive around town 'till we find somewhere we can talk all night. And we'll climb up in a willow tree where I will hold you close as we watch twilight colors change. We will grab a hold of these moments created. And I'll be you're warm shelter You'll be my precious wing We'll take on this great blue sky And we won't be afraid of falling
