

Release The Stars

Rufus Wainwright

Why do you keep all your stars in from your studio on Melrose Avenue?

You have lost all your assets owned in life-long contracts to you

Didn't you know that old Hollywood is over? Oh, can't you see all the good that celebrity can do for those in the dark?

Yes, of course, I am speaking in metaphors for something more in your heart

Didn't you know that old Hollywood is over? So why not just release the gates and let them all come out?

Remember that without them there would be no Paramount

No paramount need to hold on to what isn't yours

Release the stars The more that you fight

Then the more they will scrutinize and realize just your size

And, believe me, you are no match for a public that has seen the whites of your eyes

Didn't you know that old Hollywood is over? Old Hollywood is over

So why not just release the gates and let them all come out?

Remember that without them there would be no Paramount

No paramount need to hold on to what isn't yours

Release the stars Release the stars, release your love, release the stars

Release your love 'cause Hollywood is over

Why do you keep all your stars in from your studio on Melrose Avenue?

Songwriters

WAINWRIGHT, RUFUS Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>