How Love Should Be

Chris Botti

Flowers for my heart with tender words
And a gentle touch that says so much
This is how I've heard that love should always beWith love light in his eyes, he'll look at me
And in one bright moment, I will see
That all my dreams of love are just as love should beI have dreamed that he will give me wings to fly
And give my soul a taste of paradise
That I will feel the magic of romance by his sideThere'll be music in my head when I hear him say
That he loves me now and everyday
This is how I've heard that love should always beI will feel the magic of romance by his side
No matter how long it takes to find him
I will let my dreams remind me
That somewhere out there he's waiting for me
Just waiting to show me how love should beShow me, show me how love should be
