

Iron in the Fire

Tall Heights

Take these words into your car
It'll be a little while, til' I linger where you are

Bring on Summer in its prime

I'm like a man who can't see color but he smells the turpentine
Joy, I know it will be mine just give me the sound
just give me the time

I will commit my soul to your door tonight
It'll last til the gas fumes float on high

I will commit my soul to your door tonight
Ya know, dyin' ain't nothin but a stone cold lie but ohhhhh.. I got an Iron in that Fire

I had a vision
It was laid out in a line
In the mirror of a moment
Distended in my mind

As if I taped your photo to the wall
It drowned out the sun in haste it _____ waiting on a Kingdom call!

I will commit my soul to your door tonight
It'll last til the gas fumes float on high

Ya know, dyin' ain't nothin but a stone cold lie

But ohhh... I got Iron in that Fire

I will commit my soul to your door tonight
It'll last til' the gas fumes float on high

I will commit my soul to your door tonight
Ya know, dyin' ain't nothin but a stone cold lie
Waitin' on a Kingdom call!

I will commit my soul to your door tonight
It'll last til the gas fumes float on high

I will commit my soul to your door tonight
Ya know, dyin' ain't nothin but a stone cold lie

I was the first to live, but I'll be the last to expire
Cuz the lion in the dark is the sheep in the morning light
But ohhh...I got an Iron in that Fire

(The song has been out for like a week, so these lyrics are based off my obsessively listening to the song. they probably aren't 100% correct.)
