Last to Know

Blue Rodeo

What took so long to build, took a moment to slip away
You could barely hide the satisfaction on your face
Time takes another day, changes you in subtle ways
Lifts you up then slowly lets you goSitting there across the room your smile looks like a threat
Living underneath the heel of what you might do next
Memory works in strange ways, cuts you down and makes you pay
One day you'll be walking fine, the next day lightning hits you from behindOne heart, one love
Two people can't rise above
Each time we fall
Don't know what I was thinking of
And don't say it's so, don't say it's so
Let me be the last to knowSeems we move backward now the further on we walk
It's hard to find a single line through all our double talk
Home late and drunk again, close the door, shut out the rain
One more day no damage done, my spirits falling sinking like the sunOne heart, one love
Two people can't rise above
Each time we fall
Don't know what I was thinking of
And don't say it's so, don't say it's so
Oh, let me be the last to knowStanding at your doorway, I can hear your voice inside
Telling all your friends what you're gonna say to me tonight
Oh, write me a better part, find the words to break your heart
Keep you on your knees forever, funny now my tongue gets tied togetherOne heart, one love
Two people can't rise above
Each time we fall
Don't know what I was dreaming of
Don't say it's so, don't say it's so
Oh, let me be the last to know
