

1981

The Flaws

you want to retire, and make plans for your youth or you want to try her, she's that subtle excuse that when your not your why, or your not sure what i know while achieving nothing. by finding homes in places we wont go in 1981 i caught a glimpse of innosence that has long since left, living with old regrets your gonna expire, she's not built from experience but your dying to try her, she's that subtle excuse that when your not sure why, or not sure what i know we're achieving nothing, but i never thought that we'd find ourselves now in 1981 i caught a glimpse of innocence that has long since left, living with no regrets solo

in 1981 i caught a glimpse of innosence
that has long since left, living with old regrets cause in 1981 i saw this run in front of my eyes for the first time.

and this has taken me right back this has taken me right back.

Lyrics submitted by Paul.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>