Forty Degrees

Banner Pilot

They say that the same day is warming up and when it does I'm going outside.
And even though the snow still coast the ground
I see there's a spring in my sky.

You know I lost my way, I found it.
I'm done living like a loaded gun,
I'm walking south of Belmont
like a kid who's never seen the sun.
And I've been locked up forever,
now the winter of our discontent is gone.
I've been reset, and you know I bet our best days haven't happened yet.
'Cuz it's thawing out here in the Midwest.
We walk the shoreline, rivers high, think we could ride it out to sea.
Keep rising up until we hit the crest,
but you never know how your days will be
so I'm keeping this moment here with me

And you are wading through, you're smiling now, we made it intact.
And even though I know I'm late for work I don't think I'm not going back.

One perfect day, forget the other ones.

You know I lost my way, I found it.
I'm done living like a loaded gun,
I'm walking south of Belmont
like a kid who's never seen the sun.
And I've been locked up forever,
now the winter of our discontent is gone.
I've been reset, and you know I bet our best days haven't happened yet.
'Cuz it's thawing out here in the Midwest.
We walk the shoreline, rivers high, think we could ride it out to sea.
Keep rising up until we hit the crest,
but you never know how your days will be
so I'm keeping this moment here with me

One perfect day, forget the other ones. [x4]

Lyrics submitted by Tony Bown.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/