Downtown

Throwing Muses

She's downtown, lies in the street
Been lying in the sheets
She's gone home, lies in the streets
Been lying in the bed through her teethStares at his sky going blind, going blind
Step on corners, pick up puzzles
Eating all the grainIt was just a date in '80 now I can't remember the face
But I can see the still, I see his of the and, and, and
I'm a little bored and a little scared, I come home
I look up to see all the noise I, I, II, I, I can't remember now, I can't remember now
I can't remember now, can't remember now
Can't remember now, I can'tShe's seeing everyone, stares at her
Spreads that love around and leaves
Can't even catch the face, don't think
You can grab the face, so I leftShe's downtown lies in the sheets
Been lying in her sleep to his face
She's gone home lies in the street
Been lying in the bed through her teethDon't have to be so brave
Here he comes, here he comes
Here he comes, here he comes
(Here he comes, here he comes)
Here he comesHere he comes, here he comes
(Here he comes, here he comes)
