Molokai on My Mind

Blayne Asing

Blayne Asing: Molokai on my mind

I greet the morning after dreaming through the night.
Awake to find an emptiness inside.
I look out to the ocean and I see her in the light.
Surrender my emotions to the tide.
The Kona winds, they blow to tell her Iâ€™m alright,
But the city life I plan to leave behind.
Iâ€™ve got a feeling now that I canâ€™t seem to hide.
Well Iâ€™ve got Molokai on my mind.

I hear the sound of summer whisper in my ear.
The ocean brings the taste of supper time.
When the day does fade away and greet the new moon sky,
Shining the light is gun smoke on the rise.
I know the man that holds the key to afterlife,
And he says â€œson you better live before you die.â€•
I do believe there is more than meets the eye.
You see Iâ€˜ve got Molokai on my mind.

Should I stay or should I go to find my heart?
Locked away in long forgotten time.
The folks I know, they tell me I am numbered in the stars,
And somewhere mine begun to shine.
The is a place I go to see the evening sky,
Where the poet and the dreamer meet each night.
You must forgive me for Iâ€™m on my way tonight,
Cause Iâ€™ve got Molokai on my mind.
Iâ€™ve got Molokai on my mind.
See, Iâ€™ve got Molokai on my mind.
