

Into The Storm

Obey the Brave

Something not so superficial
Like something I can really do without Need a hand to hold onto
        Help me understand
        What's the point of reparation now?
    You've just got to make that beat somehow
        Into the storm
        All the stories you've been telling
    You must know someday they'll find you out
        Through this life you've been propelling
        Now you're spinning out
        Time to make your reparations now
    You've just got to make that leap somehow
        Come on and make it now
        Into the storm
        Armies of angels are starting to fall
    Bathed in the light at the break of the dawn
        Armies of angels are leading me on
        Take me away from the heart of the storm

Take me away
    Take me away
One thing learned from all these years
    As stupid now as we were at first
        Maybe that's the way it goes
    When you try to change the world
        Sending pointless invitations out
    You always knew what this was all about
        Somewhere a fire is breaking out
        Into the storm
        Armies of angels are starting to fall
    Bathed in the light at the break of the dawn
        Armies of angels are leading me on
        Take me away from the heart of the storm
        Take me away
        Take me away
        And we can fly from here
        And we can fly from here
        And we can fly from here

And we can fly from here
