You've Got Your Reasons

Poco

You've got your reasons
And like the seasons they change
Talking of pleasure
While enjoying the painAnd though it keeps you in the light
And all the words are said just right
There's still a cry in the night, oh yesSo we climbed every mountain
Through the snow covered hills
Taken for granted
You can get all your fillAnd if I seem to look away
And turn the pages of the play
There are these things I have to say, oh yesI'm a springtime boy
And I look for the joy
Of a world in bloom
And could it come never too soon, oh noAnd while the world is turning
And the sun is burning
Do you think in my yearning
That the journey is through?
I can't leave it up to youAnd though it keeps you in the light
And all the words are said just right
There's still a cry in the night
Oh, there's still a cry in the night, yeah, yeah

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/