

Everlasting

Brandi Sue Ryland

As the sun peeks its head around

A rainbow of colors in the flowers unwind
My whole story begins on this very day
To warm your heart to last a lifetime
In only a few small steps down your walkway

I kicked a stone and what was lost, followed
At your doorstep, what a wonderful surprise
Everything wished for, was a feast to behold
When we shook hands, there were raindrops in your eyes

Everlasting, I thought I could fly
A world of dreams ever take you so high
Forever, freedom, makes you feel alive
Life Everlasting, for me and you

As the leaves turned, I made a new friend
Shared a laugh, a hug, and happily sang the blues
With a helping hand, we moved a mountain
Uncovered buried treasure, precious love I have for you

Suddenly the wind howls, saddened you plead
May a twinkling star bring a smile as bright as the moon
The memories we shared are special indeed
Your sorrow short lived, for you will see me soon

Everlasting, I thought I could fly
A world of dreams ever take you so high
Forever, freedom, makes you feel alive
Life Everlasting, for me and you

Life Everlasting, a resurrection
A resurrection to look forward to

Everlasting, I thought I could fly
A world of dreams ever take you so high
Forever, freedom, makes you feel alive
Life Everlasting, for me and you

For me and you, for me and you
