Men and Coyotes

Red Shahan

Howlin' at the moon while the innocent sleep

In the canyon of concrete walls.

I been down, Oh! But not this low.

Twenty seven years never missed a single sunset

Eyes grow green

Living in the shadow, just another game to be seen, mmmmmm!

Some people say we sing a lonesome song for the cowboy

And others enjoy the company of a stranger.

Just like the Indians say, "We're only here to get out of the way,

A Common Day, to be misunderstood.

Chorus:

But at the end of the day, nobody cares for coyotes

Gonna burn us out, burn us out of town.

Just like a two faced liar, nobody cares for coyotes

Gonna burn us out, burn us out of town.

Yeah, yeah, yeaaah, yeah!

Hoo! Hoo! Hoooo! Ohhh!

Victim of circumstance, labeled as a young man

Never had a chance.

If I fall down, Oh, Come on home!

Twenty seven years never done nobody wrong

But my eyes go green.

Living in the shadows, just another game to be seen.

Chorus:

But at the end of the day nobody cares for coyotes

Gonna burn us out, burn us out of town.

Just like a two faced liar, nobody cares for coyotes

They're gonna burn us out, burn us out of town.

Yeah! Yeah! Yeaaah! Yeah!

Hoo! Hoo! Hoooo! Ooooh!

Repeat chorus:

Lyrics Submitted by Blackie

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/