

Whilst You Were Asleep

Global Citizen

Don't know how much you drank but you were out cold
Knew it was my only chance to have and to hold
Dimmed the lights, laid you down, rolled the camera, the action began to unfold
I stripped down to the bone and joined you there, I was the highest bidder, you were sold
We made a movie together
Whilst you were asleep
We gave new meaning to being discreet
You looked so at peace in your world, in your deep, deep sleep
I gently dropped your white cotton and took a sneak peek
It all got too much for me, I have to confess
The snow fell down quickly and heavy, all over your pretty dress
It didn't take that long though, to get back to my best
I just played for a while and you did the rest
We made a movie together
Whilst you were asleep
We gave new meaning to being discreet
I slipped off your dress and unclipped your bra
It almost seemed far too easy
Never expected in your wildest dreams
You'd be spending the night here with me
Your breasts were full and so soft to touch
Your nipples stood to attention
Spread your milky white thighs and kissed you down there
Your whole body began to tension
Took some stills with my digi, you looked so pretty
Laying there out for the count
You shone through in a position or two
I just didn't want to get out
Unconsciously, you clung on to me
You pulled me in deeper and deeper
Without a doubt, there was no backing out
I was making love to a sleeper
We made a movie together
Whilst you were asleep
We gave new meaning to being discreet
I finished off and cleaned you out, tidied up and put you to bed
If you believe something happened that night, I'll claim it was all in your head
I've got evidence that says otherwise but I'll claim it was all in your head
I've got evidence that says otherwise but I'll claim it was all in your head
