Silver Song

Johnny Flynn

I awoke that day in the afternoon
And my bed was in a basket
Underneath the blue balloon
Then a swarm of moths surrounded me
And my hair was standing on its end
With electricityAnd as I looked down on my whole life
I was speeding through the forest
On a motorbike
I waved to you
But you couldn't see
I could hear a crowd of people
Calling after meWake up little dreamer
It's time to rise
Open up your eyes
Open up your eyes
Open up your eyesI've been holding out for a lifeline
Till I followed you to
The depths of my own mind
I've been wondering kinda scattershot
Bumping into other people's lives without a second thoughtNow I do believe in the mystical
That we have some vague connection
To the other world
And now what I've said
May not all be true
But this silver song I sing tonight
I swear it's just for youWake up little dreamer
It's time to rise
Open up your eyes
Open up your eyes
Open up your eyes
