

Perfect Afternoon

The Softies

on a perfect afternoon thinking you would be there soon by the evening time it was obvious you were no longer mine you should have written, you might have called you should have never led me on at all but you were always a few days ahead of me and there was always someone else instead of me instead of me sitting perfectly still barely fighting off the chill feeling cold, feeling dumb it was becoming clear that you wouldn't come you should have written, you might have called you should have never made this plan at all
but you were always a few days ahead of me
and there was always someone else instead of me
instead of me

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>