

Outside the Pale

Samantha Crain

I bet you want a bargain, I hear you want to take cover

 Running like a yawn from one mouth to another

 You and I, we're blacktop rough, common as the dirt

 Sniveling into the phone, trying to help our sisters hurt

 Outside the pale

 Outside the pale

Time is only loved at night, night is only loved at death

 The underdogs of human thought within the infrared

 You and I, we tell the stories the TV won't release

They keep us in the wild under branch and thorn and tree

 Outside the pale

 Outside the pale

Its such a blow to reach above, split loyalty and name

 The fence just isn't real but to this very modern day

All you see is sex and property, when we run this damn machine

 Holding all the riches but it still feels like a dream

 Outside the pale

 Outside the pale
