Out the Door

The Mavericks

I don't want you, I don't need you
And I certainly don't love you anymore
I'm just trying to keep from crying
The moment that you walk out the doorThe cards are on the table
The deal is up and gone
No heartache lasts forever
For they eventually move along
At least that's what I've told myself
At times repeatedly
The only one I'm fooling here is meI don't want you, I don't need you
And I certainly don't love you anymore
I'm just trying to keep from crying
The moment that you walk out the doorRemembering all the good times
May show us what went wrong
Mistakes were never spoken of Nonetheless we carried on
I know if we'd go back in time
How different things would be
But in love and life there are no guarantees

Songwriters
Raul MaloPublished by Lyrics Â© Universal Music Publishing Group

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/