Caelestis

Forgive Durden

Our eyes spend more time
As one than we do
All I know is the day
All I see is the light
So please just feed me ether
And breathe your fire down my throat
To save me from my ever-martyred heart
Covers and sheets are my escape
But I hear you call my name from walls
You look so good in shades of gray
So wrap your memory around my wrist
So please just feed me ether
And breathe your fire down my throat
to save me from my ever-martyred heart
This will be my rediscovery
This will be my revelation
This will be my revolution
You've got to strike
While the iron's hot to the touch
I'll tighten my belt
I'll bite my tongue
Rise to where the air is rare
So watch as my planes fill the sky tonight
'Cause where we're going we don't need roads
So please just feed me ether
And breathe your fire down my throat
To save me from my ever-martyred heart
