Logical Inference

Eartha

You say you have it all together
And everythings going your way
You say that nothings bothering you
But youre just camouflaging your painEveryday theres a struggle
And youre wondering if you should let it go
Because faking aint easy
When youre breaking into piecesYou say you have it all together
And everythings going your way
You say that nothings bothering you
But youre just camouflaging your painYoure smiling and youre gracious
Youre crying in private places
Feeling fair weathered
Trying to hold it togetherBut based on logical inference
Nothing is what it seems
Your life is much different
The hurt of a broken dreamBased on logical inference
In spite of what you say
Your life is much different
Than the one that you portrayYou say you have it all together
And everythings going your way
You say that nothings bothering you
But youre just camouflaging your painEveryday theres a struggle
And youre wondering if you should let it go
Because faking aint easy
When youre breaking into piecesYou say you have it all together
And everythings going your way
You say that nothings bothering you
But youre just camouflaging your painYoure smiling and youre gracious
Youre crying in private places
Feeling fair weathered
Trying to hold it togetherBut based on logical inference
Nothing is what it seems
Your life is much different
The hurt of a broken dreamBased on logical inference
In spite of what you say
Your life is much different
Than the one that you portrayRemember all that glitters may not be gold
Your life is a story to be told
And if you think nobody sees you

Youre sadly mistaken, youve just deceived youAll that glitters may not be gold
Your life is a story to be told
And if you think nobody sees you
Youre sadly mistaken, youve just deceived you

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/