I Know It's Coming Someday

Longwave

When all your strength is wearing thin hangin' on until the end
I can give you what you're lookin' for
After the years you give in vain, reachin' out to feel again
I can give you what you're lookin' forWell, I know it's comin' someday in the pit of every mornin'
Well, I know it all too well, know it all too wellAnd now the pain is kickin' in with every crack it tears the skin
I can feel you when you're dyin'
Look back, on the days you lived before
Look back, on the nights and ask for more
And when there's no one left, you'll see me thereWell, I know it's comin' someday in the glow of every evenin'
I know you could bring me back, you could bring me backYeah, well, I know it's comin' someday and it just might be tomorrow
Well, I know it all too well, know it all too well, I know it all too well
