To Fly

Louis Febre

Every morning there's a warning that you follow
It's getting harder you know
To fill the moments of the morning
They're so hollow, fill up on empty and go
And every morning there's a brokenness
You swallow, you try to let go
Of every warning that you're wanting, want to follow?
Your signs are starting to show
I can see it in your eyes, you were made to overcome
I can see it in your eyes, you were made to rise above
I can see it in your eyes, so take these wings and fly
And for tomorrow there's a bottom of a bottle
It's getting harder you know
To dry the problem at the bottom of a bottle
Before it's out of control
I can see it in your eyes, you were made to overcome
I can see it in your eyes, you were made to rise above
I can see it in your eyes, so take these wings and fly
And every morning there's a warning that you follow
It's getting harder you know
I can see it in your eyes, you were made to overcome
I can see it in your eyes, you were made to rise above
I can see it in your eyes, so take these wings and fly
So take these wings and fly
So take these wings and fly
So take these wings and fly
So take these wings and fly
