We're bobbing on the surface
And a shadow glides below
They say she feels my heart beat
Oh, but how I'll never know
We're bobbing on the surface
And a shadow glides below
They say she feels my heart beat
Oh, but how I'll never know...

That it's the ocean flowing in our veins
Oh, 'cause it's the salt that's in our tears
Oh, 'cause we could have come so very far
Oh, in at least as many years

Take the highway through the great divide
Take the highway through the great divide
Take the highway through the great divide
Take the highway through the great divide

I'm building you a pyramid
With limestone blocks so large
I drag them from the mountaintops
You'll need a two-car garage
I'm building you a pyramid
With limestone blocks so large
I drag them from the mountaintops
You'll need a two-car garage

'Cause it's the ocean flowing in our veins
Oh, 'cause it's the salt that's in our tears
Oh, 'cause we could have come so very far
Oh, in at least as many years

Take the highway through the great divide
Take the highway through the great divide
Take the highway through the great divide
Take the highway through the great divide
