Two Pillow Sleeper

Daniel Romano

This morning when I woke up it was just like the last That lonely old heartache that haunts from the past the memories of my old life when we knew it would last but to forgive what I did is just too much to ask'Cause I'm a two pillow sleeper and everyone knows
It's one for my sore head and one where you used to go one that catches the teardrops that fall from my face
And one right beside me, to lie in your placeWell I try my very hardest as I coast through the days I step out into town and I go on my way but when I come home to the bed where we both used to lay I know I'll never rest easy till I sleep in my grave'Cause I'm a two pillow sleeper and everyone's knows
It's one for my sore head
and one where you used to go
one that catches the teardrops
that fall from my face
And one right beside me,
to lie in your place

Songwriters
DANIEL ROMANOPublished by Lyrics Â© BMG RIGHTS MANAGEMENT US, LLC

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/